

PRESIDENT FAURE.

His Election is Well Received by the Paris Moderate Press.

PEN PICTURE OF THE EXECUTIVE

From an English Point of View—The Socialists and Radicals Criticize Him Violently—The Emergency Police Were Not Needed—As Viewed in Germany—The First Protestant Ruler of France.

Paris, Jan. 17.—The election of M. Felix Faure to the presidency of the French republic has been well received by the moderate press and is violently criticized by the Radical and Socialist newspapers.

The Journal Des Debats says it is gratified at the defeat of M. Brisson, and that in electing M. Faure, who is a man of liberal and moderate mind and clear, sound intellect, the national assembly placed the destinies of France in good hands.

The Radical is of the opinion that the election leaves matters in the condition of uncertainty and instability from which the republic is suffering.

M. Millerand, the Socialist deputy and editor of The Petite Republique, says M. Faure is not president, but a mere supernumerary, adding: "The Socialist party cannot be disturbed by the election of a man who has neither individuality of character, nor particular worth."

The Lanterne predicts the beginning of an era of violent reaction, and adds: "Where Casimir-Perier failed Faure will also fail. We shall return to Versailles before the year expires."

Paris was very tranquil last night. The boulevards were no more crowded than usual, and the suburbs were not excited. The working classes were astonished at M. Brisson's defeat; but no demonstrations were reported. The entire police force was held in readiness for an emergency, but their services were not required for anything further than the usual police duties.

A meeting of socialists and others took place yesterday evening at the Maison du Peuple, at which a number of exciting speeches were made. Resolutions strongly condemning M. Felix Faure were adopted, and other resolutions demanding the suppression of the presidency were passed amid cries of "Vive la revolution sociale! Down with reaction!"

The staff of the ministry of marine called upon President Faure to-day and bid farewell to him as their chief. The president then went to the Elysee palace, where he was received with military honors, and took possession of the rooms formerly occupied by M. Casimir-Perier. The new president, however, will not take up his official residence until Wednesday.

THROUGH ENGLISH EYES.

The London Daily News Correspondent Describes M. Faure.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—A Paris dispatch to the Daily News says: The members of congress arrived at Versailles practically unperturbed. One of the results of the multiplicity of parties in France is that they are unable to put forward a strong man on an emergency. There cannot be a scientific organization which we see carried to perfection in America, where the successor of an American Casimir-Perier would have been there when wanted.

Congress hall had a hurried look. The ladies' dresses were the best they could show, but were not made for the occasion. A lady who was taken by many to be Sarah Bernhardt, sat on the tribune reserved for the wives of senators. Her figure, feature and style were strikingly Bernhardtian. When M. Waldeck-Rousseau's name was called she blew a kiss to him with the tip of her fan. She was his wife. He showed no anxiety during the first ballot, but he retired himself during the second. M. Faure was little noticed until the first count, when it became certain that he would win.

I regard this as the most reassuring sign we yet have had for the quiet of France. President Faure is a modern, but unlike Casimir-Perier or Waldeck-Rousseau, he will have no prejudice against calling Radicals to office whenever they have a majority. M. Waldeck-Rousseau would have dissolved the chamber. This accounts for his defeat. M. Faure, on the contrary, will try to agree with the chamber. In many respects he will be a president like Carnot—that is to say, without angles. He is a fast friend of ex-Minister Siegfried, who takes a deep interest in the Young Men's Christian Association. I dwell upon this fact, keeping in mind the proverb that "A man is known by the company he keeps." This friendship speaks volumes of praise for the new president. M. Siegfried showed as much joy over the election as though M. Faure was a beloved son.

M. Faure's Protestantism is not narrow, since his daughter married a Catholic, but he himself never embraced Catholicism. Therefore he is the first Protestant ruler that France has ever had, for Henry IV mounted the throne after recanting at Notre Dame. M. Faure is an able speaker, of southern fluency and imagination, with the hard head and practical sense of the Norman. Like Carnot, his opinions are rather neutral, but in fast hues. He has a gravity that is the opposite of dullness, and he is so free from conceit that he can agree almost with any one. His presence is finer than that of any other president. His figure is tall and well knit, but that of a man in whom the nervous system predominates over the muscular.

There is the seriousness of the Arab-Semite in the well-set eyes, though I fancy he can have no Semitic blood unless through the Saracenes who overran the south of France and settled for some time at Nîmes. His features are finely shaped. When a smile lights up his pensive countenance it makes it charming. He has the name of being an obliging and kind and conscientious man. His character is too harmoniously developed for strokes of dishonesty to invade it. His black eyebrows and moustache contrast with his snowy, close-cut hair. He has the look of Cleopatra in his eyes, forehead and the shape of his head, which is round and well developed. M. Faure has bought his eye a good deal on China waxes she and Japan went to war. He looks forward to startling developments in far eastern affairs.

As Viewed in Germany.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 18.—The National Zeitung says that M. Faure was only elected with the help of a majority of the senate which was the fate of M. Casimir-Perier, whose political leaning is identical with that of M. Faure. The paper does not predict greater permanence for the new presidency. The Vossische Zeitung says that M. Faure has hitherto been unknown abroad as a politician, but is regarded as being above reproach. It adds that he is a very energetic and earnest worker. The Tagblatt says it expects that M. Faure's policy will be a pacific one. The question is how long he will be able to withstand radicalism and socialism.

"MONTE CRISTO."

James O'Neill to Present it Next Monday Night.

Engraved indelibly upon the memory of every person familiar with the theatrical history of this country is Mr. James O'Neill's first appearance in "Monte Cristo" ten years ago in Booth's Theatre, New York. The impression he then created was so deep that ten seasons have not been able to erase it. Mr. O'Neill is again this season playing the perennial favorite to crowded houses all through the country, and will be seen at the Opera House next Monday and will produce Monte Cristo in his usual magnificent manner. Not only has he secured the services of a very expensive company, but each member dresses his part handsomely and an entirely new set of scenery has been painted for this season's production.

Jarreau Comedy Company.

Another good sized audience witnessed the second performance of "Starlight," presented by the Jarreau Comedy Company at the Grand last night. The piece has a slight plot, which connects a number of specialties by the ten performers composing the company. The specialties of the show are without exception refined and artistic. The same bill will be presented at the matinee to-day, and to-night will be the last performance in this city.

TREND OF TRADE.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Review of Business and Industrial Outlook.

New York, Jan. 18.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade, which issues to-morrow, will say:

There are some good signs, but they do not as yet extend to business generally, which hesitates as much as it has done for months. Gold continues to go abroad, $5,550,000 having gone this week, and the deficit is already over $5,500,000 for the month. This state of facts, with the failure of Congress to make provision of borrowing or for increasing the revenue, still operates to retard a wholesome recovery, and the volume of domestic trade represented by exchanges through clearing houses is again about seven per cent larger than last year, as it was in the first week of that month, but is 33.76 per cent smaller than two years ago, a higher rate of decrease than for some time past.

The industries are making a larger demand for some products since the new year began, but rather less for others, and definite improvement appears in prices of manufactured products or in wages. In the main, it is a waiting condition, with much hope that the positive improvement is not far off, but not very satisfactory evidence of it as yet.

Speculation has not been exceptionally active nor generally encouraging. Wheat has sagged off one cent and corn has declined 1/2c, in spite of the very low government estimate of yield, receipts being now larger than of wheat. Petroleum has touched $1 again in nominal price, but without activity.

There is somewhat more doing in the iron and steel business, enough to cause a shade of lifting in prices for Bessemer iron and billets at Philadelphia, where there is also improved demand for finished products, but at Pittsburgh, all changes reported are downward. Yet the rail movement does not gain, the total shipment in 1894 having been 725,000 tons and in spite of a larger demand nails are as low as ever. Orders for bar are not larger, though better are expected, and barbed wire is in light demand at $1.85. A combination of lake ore producers outside the Mesabima mine is expected to advance the price twenty-five cents per ton and it makes some difference at the west that the freight on Connellsville coke has been reduced ten cents at Chicago. Speculation has depressed tin a fraction and lead has been strengthened to $3.15. The reduction of 12 1/2 to 15 per cent in wages is expected to start the tin plate works.

In wool there are fairly large dealings, 10,678,815 pounds in January this far against 11,857,800 in 1893, much of the increase being in foreign wool. Considerable sales of carpet wool are reported and a better demand for territory, while Ohio XX is quoted at 17c. The important London sales of Australian has caused some hesitation. The opening of heavy weight wools is believed to indicate a decline of 30 to 40c in goods costing $3 or over and 2 1/2 to 20c in goods costing from $2 to $3 per yard, but many makes have not yet been shown. While there is much waiting in this industry, there is evidently a hopeful determination to meet foreign competition.

Failures for the week have been 373 in the United States against 407 last year, and 69 in Canada against 46 last year.

THE RICKS CASE.

Two Reports Submitted to the House Judiciary Committee.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 18.—Representative Bailey submitted to the judiciary committee the report prepared by him in explanation of the proposed impeachment proceedings against Judge Ricks. The report recites the charges against the judge already published and submits the following resolution:

"That Augustus J. Ricks, judge of the United States court for the northern district of Ohio, should be impeached for high crimes and misdemeanor. That the committee on the judiciary is hereby instructed to prepare without necessary delay and report to this house suitable articles of impeachment against said Augustus J. Ricks, judge of the United States court for the northern district of Ohio."

Mr. Broderick submitted a minority report in which he denies the charges and sums up the case as follows:

In view of all the facts in this case it is our conclusion that Judge Ricks is not guilty of any offense; that there was no intention of wrong doing, and that no moral turpitude attaches. We therefore recommend that the resolution reported to the house for impeachment be not adopted.

The Pan-Handle Dyeing establishment, owned by John Heilmann, at No. 1431 Market street, is the best equipped house of its kind in Wheeling. In addition to the dyeing and cleaning departments a corps of first-class tailors are employed, who can do repairing as neat as it is possible. Clothes and ladies' garments, cleaned or dyed, can be made to look like new. Satisfaction guaranteed.

"A year ago last spring I was taken with sore throat and could not swallow or sleep. Later my head and face broke out with little pimples. I felt dull and had no ambition to do anything. I did not care to eat, and what little I did eat did me no good. I am six feet, one inch tall and only weighed 137 pounds. The first bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla made such a change in me, I was surprised at myself. I have a number of men working here and I got them to take it, and now I do not go to town but what someone wants me to bring back a supply of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Well, now to myself, I am on the fourth bottle. Today I can get out and do any kind of work and feel good. I weigh 170 pounds and am gaining flesh every day. What I eat tastes good and I am

A WITCH DOCTOR.

Soun-Doo Sentenced to Prison for Three Years.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—Soun-Doo, the notorious witch doctor of Alaska, has arrived here in charge of United States Marshal Williams, and taken to San Quentin prison to begin serving a three years' sentence. The old medicine man during the past dozen years has been guilty of causing the death of many Indians on the ground that they were witches. For a long time he evaded the United States authorities by fleeing the villages of the interior. Last spring, however, at Chilcoot, the doctor caused the death of a woman as a witch. In July he was arrested and taken to Juneau, and his trial, which was conducted before United States District Judge Warren Truett, resulting in his conviction for manslaughter.

The old witch doctor was defended by Attorney Matoney, of Juneau, but the facts were all against him, and about the only question made an issue was the jurisdiction of the court. Soun-Doo's attorney maintained that the offense was committed at Chilcoot, and was in Indian territory, but the court held otherwise.

Threats Against Legislators.

HELENA, MONT., Jan. 18.—The house has adopted a resolution to investigate threats made against the Silver Bow members because they voted for Thomas H. Carter for senator. They have received a letter signed "James Melan, chairman committee," calling them "bribe-takers" and "home-bought traitors," and warning them that an oath-bound band of 13, among whom the letter alleges are no traitors, awaits their return to Butte.
